McVeight Again in Jail; Is Fined $90

Jerry McVeight is a third time loser. Charged with being drunk, McVeight appeared before City Judge D. E. Roberts and said he was ready for trial. "Guilty or not guilty," asked the judge. "If I plead guilty I'd tell a lie on myself," McVeight returned. After much argument over a bottle, labeled denatured alcohol, which Officer E. A. Backlund said he saw Mc-

CONTEST FOR BEST WOMAN DRIVER TO START TOMORROW

Well, women auto drivers of Ogden no doubt you read the announcement in last night's Standard-Examiner of the contest to determine the most careful woman driver in the city. And no doubt you also recall that the Standard-Examiner is offering ten pairs of tickets to "The Girl in the Limousine," that gay farce, which comes to the Orpheum next Wednesday, to winners of this contest.

So far so good.

The contest is open to all women drivers. So girls try to inveigle Dad into letting you use the car Saturday, Monday or Tuesday, the days upon which the women are to be judged.

It is suggested to the women of Ogden that they coast hubbly to walk down town on either of the three mornings and leave the car home. Then just jump into the car and drive around Ogden's busiest corners and drive your best.

The traffic officers will be watching closely. They will take into consideration obedience to traffic regulations, ease of handling the car, speed at crossings and other matters connected with the motor driving in the business district.

There are no strings attached to the contest. If you are the best driver, the traffic officer will stop you and ask for your name, telephone number, etc. On Tuesday in the Standard-Examiner the honor list will be published.

If your name is in that list just call at the Orpheum theatre Wednesday after 11 a. m., properly identify yourself and get two tickets to "The Girl in the Limousine." There will be no voting, no money to spend outside of your regular allotment for gasoline. Isn't that fair enough?

J. Ray Ward, commissioner of public safety has approved the Standard-Examiner's contest and named these officers to act as judges:

Saturday, William Dick, Twenty-fifth and Washington avenue.

Motorcycle H. B. Elam will keep a sharp lookout for the best women drivers while riding about the business district.

Monday the judges will be Officers Dick, J. M. Hawkins at Twenty-fourth street and Washington and Motorcycle Officer Elam.

Every act on the Pantages bill that opened at the Orpheum theatre last night for the week's run was especially designed as a care-disperser, the kind that comes from laughs.

Klass and Termini, musical headliners, might be judged a more or less serious act until they appear, when their illusion vanishes. Termini is a violinist and a comedian as well. What he is unable to express through his music he manages to convey by muscular manipulation of his face. He is ably assisted by his partner, Klass, who plays the piano and performs fecklessly on the accordion.

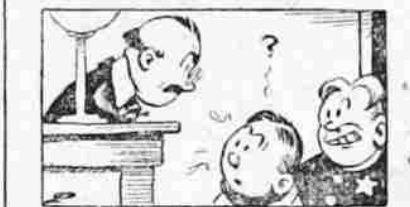

A miniature musical comedy, termed "A Little Cafe" on the program, turns out to be quite an elaborate production. Catchy songs, pretty girls, clever comedians and a wee person who sings, dances and gives impersonations of movie stars, comprise a feature which scores a hit.

A combination of yodelling, classy dance steps, jazzy songs and foolish drivel which bears the marks of some original headwork, is the offering which Ward Brothers put over. They receive smiles and applause in generous measure in return. Davis and McCoy give a rapid fire display of wit and song that sets the pace for fun in several acts which come later.

An exceptionally good exhibition of acrobatic stunts, the Krebba Brothers as first-class performers. The fifth episode of "Bride 13," which completes the bill, leaves the thirteen brides in a precarious situation as could be desired.

SHOPLIFTERS' TRICKS STUDIED

Special Policewomen Will Be Given Instruction in Detecting Thievery

One of the most unusual schools of classes, ever inaugurated in Ogden, where special policewomen and men and some detectives will be of tricks and methods used by shoplifters in playing their illicit trade in stores, is to be a part of the campaign of the Ogden chamber of commerce through the credit rating department, which is now being conducted by merchants in an endeavor to wipe out shoplifting in the city.

New and old tricks, many of them clever and original with the thieves, will be the subjects of the classes and as persons are caught in the campaign their methods of "getting away with the goods" will be explained to the students in order that they may be up-to-date and may balk the clever professional as well as the amateur.

Classes with false bottoms, muffs, special design and coats with pockets to receive the stolen goods, will be shown and explained in the classes. Sections of the persons in "dressing" and goods will be studied closely and also their actions after walking away from the counters from which they have stolen.

The merchants have announced that they have entered the campaign with but one thought in mind, that to eliminate entirely the activities of store thieves in Ogden. They have all agreed that they will prosecute the guilty ones to the limit of the law, regardless of whether the culprit is an amateur making the initial theft or a professional who has stolen for years and has made it a permanent trade.

Miss M. Stewart, director of the credit rating bureau of the chamber of commerce, is supervising the work of the campaign and is being aided by cooperation of the police department, through its head, Ray Ward, commissioner of public safety, and Joseph E. Bates, county attorney. Commissioner Ward has offered the services of the police department in running down the thieves and in obtaining the true names of the persons caught. He will make each name public, together with the details of the arrest. County Attorney Bates has promised to prosecute the offenders to the limit prescribed by law.

PANTAGES BILL CARE-DISPERSER

All Acts Designed Solely for Laugh Purposes This Week

Whatever the outcome of the vote of the people on the constitutional amendments at the general elections last week, already discussion is taking place in many quarters as to the advisability of holding a constitutional convention. It is urged that Utah should follow the example of several other states of recent years and create a new basic law.

Advocates of this measure say that little can be effected in the way of improvement by attempting to graft new ideas on to the present constitution. They assert that while the Utah constitution is not old in years, some of its provisions were copied from constitutions that are considerably older, and that prevail in states that have since been changed.

Two sections concerning the legislative department have been altered since statehood. In addition to the two already mentioned, two other sections of the revenue and taxation article have been altered. Two sections on the subject of the state's indebtedness have been altered, and the proposal to change one of the state's laws submitted to the people at the last election though it probably lost. The section prohibiting the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages was added two years ago.

WIRELESS PHONE SET FOR OGDEN

Forestry Building Station Will Talk to Salt Lake Aerial Mail Center

Wireless telephone service between Ogden and Salt Lake will be established with the return to Ogden of R. B. Adams, telephone service engineer. Mr. Adams is at present in central Idaho and is expected here within the next few weeks.

Communication with the wireless telephone station of the aerial mail service at Salt Lake will be established. The main purpose of the Ogden station will be to test and regulate wireless telephone sets which will be used next summer in the Thunder Mountain area in central Idaho. Sets installed during the past season were not tested prior to their installation and in many respects were not entirely satisfactory.

Range Permittees on Forest Make Big Gains

The number of cattle and horse permittees on the national forests of the United States has increased from 20,499 in 1911 to 30,301 in 1920. The number of cattle and horses has increased from 1,144,428 in 1911 to 2,118,540 in 1920.

May Call Convention to Amend State Laws

hending constitutional conventions or are planning to hold them.

Sixteen changes have been made in the state constitution since its adoption in 1895, not including those, if any, presented at the recent election. The taxation article has been the object of many changes. The section governing the uniform tax to be provided by the legislature has appeared in four different forms in the state's basic law, and that governing taxation of mines in three different forms. And it is not yet in shape, say some students of legislation, to satisfy the needs for taxation legislation along modern lines.

So, too, the section of the article on education which deals with the maintenance of the public school system has been twice amended. Two other sections in the article on education have been changed.

Two sections concerning the legislative department have been altered since statehood. In addition to the two already mentioned, two other sections of the revenue and taxation article have been altered. Don't Buy Doubtful Stocks

We advise the following investment before purchase:

Is the money that I put into the proposition absolutely safe?

Is it a security that I can sell readily and quickly and without loss if I need the money?

Is it a security upon which banks would lend me money?

Is the management of the company honest?

Assuming it is honest, is the management qualified by previous experience to conduct the business successfully and profitably?

Is the article to be manufactured one for which there is a real demand?

Assuming that there is a real demand, is the company able to market this in a manner to return a reasonable profit?

How does the probable rate of interest or dividend compare with absolutely safe investments that I could make?

Have I taken the word of the solicitor or have I investigated sufficiently to know the proposition thoroughly?
